Legislature Meets At Trenton Tonight—May Act In Lindbergh Case

Governor Hoffman, If Attacked, May Demand That Legislature Investigate Actions of Other Authorities in the State.

HOME UNDER GUARD

Report Identity of "J. J. Faulkner" Established—Arrest is Sought. Wilentz Goes to Florida.

By DALE HARRISON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 20 (AP)—If the Lindbergh murder case is to become a political football, there will be opportunity tonight for the kickoff.

The legislature, Republican-controlled but possessed of a lively Democratic minority, meets for the first time since Gov. Harold G. Hoffman granted Bruno Richard Hauptmann a 30-day reprieve, and for the first time since an "impeach Hoffman" demand was published in Trenton newspapers.

Hoffman's political foes are frankly up a tree in their efforts to learn what may have been behind the governor in his almost solitary stand in the case.

A legislative move against the governor, his foes realized from his formal defi of impeachment proceedings, might encounter a demand by the governor for investigation of the course of other state authorities.

As the days of Hauptmann's respite from the electric chair passed, another figure in the case made ready to leave the state. First Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, with his family, went to England, then Dr. John F. Condon, Lindbergh's ransom intermediary, left on a South American cruise.

Wilentz Goes To Florida

Today Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, Hauptmann's courtroom nemesis, prepared for his annual trip to Florida. He plans to return before the reprieve expires.

Wilentz gave notice early last week that in the event of a reprieve for Hauptmann he would have to ask more funds from the legislature. It is understood, however, that he contemplates no immediate request.

The governor, with a week-end of other activities behind him, gave no indication of what success he is meeting in his efforts to clarify the state's most shocking crime. He has expressed the opinion that much remains to be told despite Hauptmann's conviction.

He was reported to be interested in Morris Rosner, one of the intermediaries drafted by Colonel Lindbergh early in the case. Rosner was believed at the time to have valuable contacts in the underworld.

The governor wants to know if Rosner or any other outsiders had a chance to inspect the original ransom note with its identifying symbol, before the subsequent notes were received.

The state police contend that the note remained always in their possession. Counsel for Hauptmann argued otherwise in federal court in Trenton last week.

J. J. Faulkner Known

There was a flurry of new interest in "J. J. Faulkner," with reports that his identity had been established and his arrest sought.

The governor is understood to be satisfied, however, that the man who wrote the letter signed "J. J. Faulkner" in which the writer said Hauptmann was not guilty of the murder, had no definite knowledge.

He has been advised by Samuel Small, New York penman who says Hauptmann could not have written the ransom notes, that "J. J. Faulkner" the letter-writer and "J. J. Faulkner" who signed a deposit slip at the New York Federal Reserve Bank the day a batch of ransom bills was turned in are not the same person.

From prosecution sources came indication that they know the author of the Faulkner letter to the governor was an imitator of a signature.

Gustave S. Lockwood, motor vehicle inspector, who has been so constantly in the governor's company recently that presumption has arisen that he is investigating the Hauptmann affair, was said by relatives to be in Buffalo during the week-end. They did not say why.

A 24-hour guard has been posted at the South Amboy home of Governor Hoffman because of reports of threats against him.

King George's Strength Is Reported To Be Diminishing

The King Has Already Signed a Document Naming Queen Mary and the Four Royal Sons as a Council of State to Take Over Most of the Royal Duties During His Grave Illness.

By CHARLES P. NUTTER
(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

Sandringham, Eng., Jan. 20—A physicians' bulletin announced at 5:30 p. m. today that the strength of King George V was "diminishing."

The bulletin, signed by three physicians, stated:

"The condition of the king shows diminishing strength."

The affairs of monarchy already had been taken over by a council of state appointed with the full knowledge of the failing king.

The disquieting bulletin followed a more hopeful outlook which had been held throughout the day because of indications from the last previous bedside reports that the monarch's condition was unchanged and that he apparently was maintaining his strength.

The physicians' bulletin was signed by Sir Frederick J. Willians, Sir F. Stanley Hewett, surgeon apothecary to his majesty, and Lord Dawson of Penn, physician in ordinary.

It was considered the most serious issued since Friday night's statement which first revealed that the king was in a critical condition with a weakening heart.

The 5:30 p. m. bulletin was the first time since Saturday afternoon that a mention had been made of the king's losing strength.

The announcement was quickly posted on the "jubilee gate" at Sandringham House.

Many villagers, returning to their homes from work, huddled close to read the words.

The news soon spread into the village of Dersingham. Many of the townspeople started walking up the hill to gather at the gates of the king's residence to await further information.

King George V, propped up in bed, signed today a document setting up a council of state to assume most of the royal duties during his majesty's grave illness and heart weakness.

The sovereign's privy council, summoned from London, met in an apartment ajoining the royal sick room and appointed the members of the council of state while the 70-year-old king entered a possibly decisive stage of his sickness.

It was officially stated that the council of state consists of Queen Mary and the four royal sons, the Prince of Wales, and the Dukes of York, Gloucester and Kent.

The appointment of the council of state followed a special meeting of the privy council.

To attend the privy council session, Ramsay MacDonald, lord president of the council, and other members had come from London this morning.

In accordance with constitutional procedure, the door between the sitting room and the sick room was open with a member of the council standing at the portal so that the monarch was able to hear the voices of the conferece in the next room.

KING 4— . . . .

At the end of the brief privy council session, Lord Dawson of Penn, physician in ordinary to the king, himself a member of the council, took the state paper to the royal bedside, gave the monarch a pen, and stood silently while the royal signature was written.

The paper bearing the signature, "George R. I.," then was handed to Sir Maurice Hankey, secretary of the council, who was charged with taking it to London.

The official statement of the names of the councillors was announced from the privy council offices in London as follows:

"His Majesty, the King, at a council held in Sandringham this morning, appointed counsellors of state.

"Those so appointed are:

"Her Majesty the Queen;

"H. R. H. the Prince of Wales;

"H. R. H. the Duke of York;

H. R. H. the Duke of Gloucester; and

"H. R. H. the Duke of Kent.

"There were present at the council the archbishop of Canterbury, the lord chancellor, the lord president of the council, Lord Dawson of Penn, Lord Wigram, and the home secretary.

"Sir Maurice Hankey, in attendance as clerk of the council."

The royal prerogatives thus all remain within the hands of the members of the royal family.

Senate Clears Last Major Obstacle to Bonus Bill Passage

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The last major obstacle to passage of the bond payment bonus bill was cleared today with senate rejection of the king amendment to provide for payment of only the present surrender value of the adjusted service certificates.

The amendment, according to its author, Senator King (D.-Utah), would have cost the government more than $1,000,000,000 less than the coalition bill's estimated ultimate cost of $2,491,000,000.

He contended over $9,000,000,000 had been spent on World War veterans to date and asserted the bill was not based on "sound ethics."

King's was the only audible "aye" when his substitute was put to a voice vote.

WOMEN INJURED AS SHIRT WORKERS CLASH

New Albany, Ind., Jan. 20 (AP)—A clash between union sympathizers and non-union shirt makers at the plant of M. Fine and Sons today resulted in a request by Police Chief Edward H. Meier, for Indiana National Guardsmen to aid local officers.

Lucille Weaver, a non-union worker, was arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Officers said she attempted to draw a knife on Florence Stuart, a union sympathizer.

Chief Meier said several women were slightly injured during the clash.

The disorder occurred when an attempt was made to reopen the Fine factory here after it had been closed fourteen weeks by a strike which union representatives said was called in protest against a forty per cent wage reduction.

It will be borne to the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in Albany where it will lie in state.

Monsignor Delaney died at the New England Baptist Hospital early yesterday, less than a week after an emergency operation for an obstructive jaundice.

The monsignor, who was pastor of St. Mary's Church, Amsterdam, N. Y., was first striken seven weeks ago. He was under treatment at St. Mary's Hospital, Amsterdam, until Dr. Frank Lahey, Boston specialist, examined him and ordered him brought here.

SEARCH FOR HOWARD STARK, MISSING FLIER AND AUTHOR

Salt Lake City, Jan. 20 (AP).—A difficult search for Howard Stark, missing department of commerce flier and author, was pressed today by land and air in the rugged, snow-blanketed Wasatch Mountains.

Stark vanished last Thursday en route from Rock Springs, Wyo., to Salt Lake City, being last reported near Morgan, Utah.

C. C. Lane, director of the local air navigation bureau of the department of commerce, said there were hundreds of isolated places where Stark, an experienced pilot, could have landed his ship when his airboats' fuel supply was exhausted.

The heavy snow hampered the search. Fliers said it would be difficult to locate the craft on the snow even if they should fly over it.

Worst Blizzard In Ten Years Tied Up Traffic In Kingston and Ulster County

Ulster county and the city of Kingston were snowbound Sunday by the worst blizzard that had broken in the past 10 years. The snow rode in on a 50-mile gale that piled the falling snow into drifts from three to eight feet in height, blocking all highways and stalling cars and busses in all parts of the county. Both the city and county snow fighting equipment was out early Sunday morning plowing the roads, but almost as fast as the snow was removed from the streets and highways it was piled back again by the high wind that was sharp and chill, stinging the faces of those who were forced to be out in the storm. The thermometers hovered around the 10 degrees above zero mark during the storm and householders were forced to operate their heating units to full capacity in order to keep the homes and buildings fairly comfortable.

The railroads, however, were not greatly delayed by the storm, and all trains were reported as running close to schedule, being but 10 to 20 minutes behind time. Reports from the New York Central Railroad were to the effect that the mountain division was not greatly delayed by the storm but that the service between Kingston and Oneonta through the Catskill Mountains was being maintained close to schedule with the trains less than half an hour behind schedule. While the snow was piled high in the mountain passes the big railroad snowplows experienced no great difficulty in opening the tracks to traffic.

Street and houselighting service was not interrupted in Kingston and telephone service was as usual.

The work of digging out from under the blizzard was being carried on today by large forces of men and equipment in the city and county.

Storm in City

Driven on the wings of a gale the worst snowstorm in years enveloped Kingston on Sunday, paralyzing traffic and leaving in its wake drifts of snow from four to eight feet in height. The street department worked all day Sunday and during the night with the snowplows and managed to maintain a semblance of traffic on Broadway and the main arteries to the city. About two feet of snow fell during Sunday, and as fast as the snowplows went through a street the high wind swept the snow back into the plowed tract, and half an hour after a plow had passed through the street the tract was hidden under a billowing mass of snow.

Saturday morning, afternoon and night the street department worked opening the streets from the four inch fall of snow and had the business sections cleared as well as the streets in front of the city churches and fire stations. The street department worked until 11 o'clock Saturday night before the work was accomplished.

Sunday morning about 3 o'clock another storm broke over the city and by 9 o'clock fully half a foot of snow had fallen. The snow was light and feathery and it burst over the city driven by a high wind which piled the snow into drifts. So light was the snow that fell during the morning hours Sunday that householders were able to clean off the sidewalks with a broom.

5 Deaths Attributed To Howling Blizzard In New York State

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP)—New York state citizens dug themselves out from under deep snowdrifts today, left by a howling blizzard that brought death to five, blocked highways, delayed train and bus schedules and ground all air travel.

A State Trooper, a young woman, a snow plow driver and two young men were dead, all victims directly or indirectly of the worst storm in several years.

State Trooper Clark Lewis, 43, was killed near Montauk, N. Y., when his car skidded on the icy roads and overturned during the height of the storm early Sunday.

Miss Agnes Hupitch, 28, of Gloversville, died in an Amsterdam hospital from injuries received in the head-on collision of two automobiles.

Ralph Peter, a lineman, fell from the top of a 30-foot pole at Hoosick Falls and fractured his skull.

Gerald Wagner, 34, a workman on a county highway snow plow was killed near Amsterdam when the plow plunged down an embankment after striking a pole.

At Utica Joseph and Stanley Synakowski, 20 and 19 year old brothers, planned to spend the night repairing their car. They closed the garage doors to keep out the snow and cold. They were found dead today, victims of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Near Fishkill seven State Troopers carried Miss Sharon Holland, 20, of Albany, one mile on a stretcher to an ambulance stalled in a snow drift after she was injured in an accident. Then they picked up the stalled ambulance, turned it around and sent it on its way toward Beacon. The car in which Miss Holland was riding struck a snow plow. She suffered a possible fractured skull.

Throughout eastern New York the snow was a foot to two feet deep and threatened to pack in tight drifts as the wind kept up its stinging blasts.

Main highways in many sections of the state were blocked. The Storm King Highway high over the Hudson was reported to be closed.

Railroad workers were put on 24-hour duty keeping switches and rights of way cleared. Bus operators

City Forces To Work Tonight Moving Snow; More Trucks Needed

Mayor Heiselman stated today that in order to dig the city out from under the worst blizzard of years that it was planned to work all day today and also tonight with men and trucks removing snow from the streets. Two plows that were ordered will be here this afternoon and will be placed on trucks and placed at work.

All day today the mayor and his assistants have been getting in touch with truck owners seeking to hire the trucks to be used in carting snow. Any truck owner who has a truck that he would like to place on the job should get in touch with the street department or the mayor at once as the snow removal work will be carried on tonight.

Mayor Heiselman is hoping that the work accomplished so far and what will be done today and tonight will have the majority of the streets open to traffic by tomorrow, although it will be several days before the snow in the business sections and along Broadway will be carted away.

Mountain Division of R. R. Not Stormbound

At the West Shore station here today it was stated that the former Ulster & Delaware railroad was operating regularly between Kingston and Oneonta and that the trains were not delayed to any extent by the blizzard of Sunday. The trains, it was said, were running from 10 to 20 minutes behind schedule on Sunday.

The storm also did not hold up traffic on the West Shore railroad and the trains were only ten to twenty minutes behind schedule all day.

At the O. & W. railroad office here it was stated that the was freight that left Summitville at 5 o'clock this morning and was due in Kingston shortly after 11 o'clock this morning had not arrived yet, due to the storm. There is no passenger service maintained on the O. & W. branch here, although in the summer a passenger train ran as far as Kyserike, which was the first stop. Passenger service on this branch of the O. & W. has been discontinued for some time as former patrons of the road were in late years availing themselves of the bus line service on the state highways.

Tanker Calls For Help

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—The coast guard cutter Modoc reported early today it had picked up a wireless message from the American Molasses Tanker Amelia saying she was still being battered by a heavy gale 50 miles off Cape Hatteras and needed assistance. A coast guard cutter was reported enroute to the scene from Norfolk, Va., to aid the distressed vessel and to bring medical supplies for one of the ship's officers seriously ill. Further details were not known here.

TORNADO TOLL

The Weather Forecast Calls For More Snow and Colder Weather Tonight and Tomorrow.

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP) Tornadoes swept three sautheastern states while blizzards lashed the northern tier of states from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic coast as the nation today counted at least 115 dead, including 58 in traffic accidents.

The majority of the reported automobile fatalities were chargable to slippery streets and obscured vision of drivers

Snow, ice and sleet blanketed most of the upper half of the nation and the weather forecast called for more snow and colder weather. In many sections the week-end storm was called the "worst blizzard of the year." Many schools were ordered closed today.

Traffic generally was impeded seriously. Many airports were closed and planes grounded. Railroads ran far behind schedule. In many cities trolleys were blocked by snow and automobile traffic virtually was halted. Most main highways were reported open to traffic but few secondary roads were passable in the midwest.

Heavy snows and rain in some southern states brought a new menace from floods and rivers and streams rose sharply.

Several ships were in distress. The S. S. City of Camden went aground near Pennsgrove, N. J., but its 70 passengers were brought safely ashore. Another steamer, the F. S. Ipswitch, reported aground near Panama City, Fla., was reported in no immediate danger.

A barge sank in New York harbor and three fishing boats were reported missing from Tampico, Mexico. Ten men were reported drowned in the sinking of one. Four men also were reported missing and believed drowned on a fishing tug near Kenosha, Wis., and three other fishermen refused to leave their tug near the Soo in Michigan.

Motorists reported a vessel afire off Point Mugu, Calif.

Property damage was reported at more than a million from tornado, freezing and fires.

Senate May Refuse Further Funds for The Nye Committee

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Belabored by prominent Democratic Senators, the Nye inquiry into the munitions business and World War events came to a sudden halt today, its coffers empty.

Chairman Nye (R.-N. D.), assailed last week by Senator Glass (D.-Va.) for saying Woodrow Wilson "falsified," announced that further hearings had been cancelled temporarily. J. P. Morgan and partners will not be recalled to testify next Thursday as planned.

Nye said "I think we will get" the $7,000 to $9,000 needed to wind up the committee's work, but other legislators expressed strong doubts. Majority Leader Robinson (D.-Ark.), Chairman Glass of the appropriations committee and Chairman Byrnes (D.-S. C.) of the Senate contingent funds committee had made it plain they were vehemently opposed to voting more money.

Coughlin to the Rescue

In Detroit, Father Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest, declared his National Union for Social Justice will supply funds to Nye's munitions committee if the "Senate does not appropriate another $10,000 which today stands between peace and war."

The Nye remark which caused indignation in the Senate was that Wilson falsified in saying he did not know until after the war that the Allies had secret pacts to divide up territory to be won in the conflict.

Nye said his committee had offered bills to take the profits out of war and to prevent collusion among warship builders, and that it intended to hold hearings and report on the probable cost of government ownership of munitions plants.

"It would be greatly to the financial advantage of certain powerful and industrial interests to have this report buried and the subject forgotten," he said.

In addition, he said, the committee has been seeking to determine, by questioning J. P. Morgan and partners, whether any administration can stay neutral after it has allowed "war traffic" to reach "tremendous proportions."

"TWIN THERMOMETER" TEST PROVES ANTHRACITE BEST

In a room heated by ... furnace, ... thermometer ... the floor and one at eye level. While the burner is "on" both ... the same. ... when it is shut off the one on the floor ... drops ... The "on and off" operation of oil and gas burners causes this. Cold air piles up on the floor, and while the temperature at eye level may be 7° ... much lower near the floor. With anthracite there is always a bed of live coals to supply enough heat to the system to prevent this.

Blizzard Tied Up Traffic In Kingston

abatement the street department was out early Sunday morning with every available plow and from then on and during the night and early morning hours of today the plows were driven constantly through the streets. The storm increased in violence as the day wore on and the snow fighting equipment was unable to combat it successfully but did manage to keep open Broadway and the main streets leading into the city.

As the storm increased in volume the snow fighting forces were forced to mobilize and give their entire attention to Broadway and the main streets, although the plows were sent through many of the side streets several times during the day.

Bus Service Suspended

The Kingston City Transportation Company was forced to suspend all bus service at 7 o'clock Sunday night and all of the buses were taken off the routes and placed in the barn as they were unable to battle through the heavy drifts.

On the Broadway line service was resumed this morning, and continued throughout the day. The Hasbrouck avenue line was unable to resume service this morning owing to the heavy drifts along the route, and patrons of the line were forced to walk to work. The bus lines that cover the outskirts of the city were also tied up and unable to operate during the morning.

Taxi service in the city was practically at a standstill although taxi lines managed to keep service in the main streets, but were unable to respond to calls on many of the side streets as it was impossible to force a way through the drifts.

Even equipped with skid chains automobiles were unable to make their way through many of the streets so deep was the snow, and cars were stalled on many of the side streets and the owners were forced to leav them where they had become caught until this morning as it was impossible for other cars to get to them to tow them out.

The storm played pranks on some householders for while they found their walks badly drifted they discovered that adjoining residences had had their walks almost swept clean of snow by the gale.

While the storm was raging it was impossible to make any attempt to truck away the snow that had fallen. Mayor Heiselman who was at the city hall shortly after 8 o'clock this morning stated that last night 75 trucks had been ordered to report this morning for work, but only 18 trucks had shown up. The other trucks were drifted in garages and their owners had been unable to dig them out.

Schools In Session

Inquiry brought out the fact that the city schools would hold sessions as usual today as Regents examinations were scheduled for this week and as they must be held at the same time throughout the state it was impossible to close the schools.

Today the street department placed every available man at work with shovels, got in touch with every truck owner urging them to report for duty with their trucks so that snow could be carted away in the business sections.

At the Central Fire Station it was stated that Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy on Sunday ordered every paid fireman to remain on duty throughout Sunday and today so as to respond to any fire alarm. Fortunately no fires broke out in the city Sunday or this morning as the fire department would have difficulty in responding.

The radio cars of the police department were kept in constant operation throughout the storm, and responded to all alarms sent in. No attempt was made to patrol the outlying districts and the cars were forced to keep to those streets that were kept open by the snowplows during the day.

Local theatres were kept open, but the attendance was far from large.

After the adoption of the Board of Public Works budget the board ordered two additional trucks and five snowplows. These plows are to be placed on the two new trucks and the three extra plows on the ash trucks.

Those who struggled through the storm on Sunday were of the opinion that the street department would have been able to keep the streets plowed and traffic moving if the storm had not been accompanied by the gale of wind which swept the snow back as fast as it was plowed.

Snow Equipment Mobilized

All available county snow equipment was mobilized and sent out over the various routes and in spite of the severe drifting which in places piled drifts 10 and 12 feet high, most of the main highways of the county were kept open with the exception of delays caused where drifting closed roads almost as soon as the plows had passed. This morning all main arteries were open to traffic for one-way traffic and the widening of the roads was continued throughout the day.

The only severe tie-up which took place was in the southern end of the county where in the neighborhood of Modena stalled buses tied up even the snow plows. Three buses were stalled along the Modena-Ireland Corners road and prevented the plows from getting through. The buses apparently had stalled in the drifts and in an endeavor to fight through had stalled cross-wise of the road plugging traffic. This morning additional equipment was sent out to aid in opening this section.

No attempt was made to keep Minnewaska Trail over the Shawangunks open during the storm because of the steep grades and the severe wind which piled drifts up as fast as roads could be opened. Mr. Baldwin, who was in charge of the equipment at the county garage, said this morning that Minnewaska Trail would be opened during the day as soon as returning equipment could be serviced and sent out.

By night all improved roads in the county will be open at least for one way traffic and the main routes will be widened during the day as rapidly as possible.

10 Feet Drifts.

Men coming in reported drifts from 4 to 10 feet deep in places and in several instances drifts higher than the cab windows of the equipment were encountered.

Due to the severe wind which accompanied the storm it was difficult to estimate the actual snowfall but apparently the snowfall was about the same depth through the county.

The storm was one of the worst which the county has been faced with since the removal of snow has been undertaken on a large scale.

Difficulty was encountered in getting through to Wallkill due to the stalled busses which delayed operations.

The route through Walker Valley and Pine Bush was opened early as was route 9-W from the Orange county line to the Greene county line. The Kingston-Ellenville road was also open this morning.

Flatbush road was not opened early this morning but later in the morning equipment was sent out and opened the route.

The south boulevard around the Ashokan was not opened but the route from Boiceville through to Stone Ridge was open. The route from Saugerties through to Mt. Tremper was also open as was the Boulevard-Woodstock route. The Kingston-Sawkill-Zena road was also kept open and the route from Kingston to Pine Hill was open for one way traffic during the storm but this morning plows were sent out to widen out this route.

The Rosendale-New Paltz road was also open.

Later in the morning it was reported that since the wind had gone down, making it possible to make more rapid progress, that all of the county routes would be open by night and the work of widening out the tracks would be continued until all routes were again normal.

ART OF WHITTLING MAY BE RESTORED

Important in Building of Engineer Models.

Columbus, Ohio.—The art of whittling, once a favorite hobby of men and boys with "time on their hands," but now almost forgotten, may be revived to become an interesting and useful profession—that of building models for engineering purposes.

That's the opinion of Samuel T. Carpenter, for the last two years a member of the engineering faculty at Ohio State university and now on the staff at Swarthmore college, whose views were expressed in an article written for the Engineering Experiment Station News, published at Ohio State university.

According to Carpenter, the engineer who is handy with a knife has a distinct advantage with the increased use of models in engineering. And he adds, "Model engineering is in its infancy."

"Building models has often been thought a hobby, the making of an elegant sailing ship for the mantelpiece being the goal of every home craftsman. It has become much more," Carpenter said.

"The hobby followers have unconsciously developed their art of representing detail to the point where engineers, beset with problems of analysis and verification, have elected to use models to help them in their calculations."

He cited as examples the San Francisco-Oakland bridge and Boulder dam, both of which were verified by models.

In the old days of engineering, Carpenter said, much construction was done on the "make and break" or "shot in the dark" plan. This was costly and the final results uninterpretable. Now, through the use of models, engineers are more certain of results, he claimed.

Protect Married Men in "Balm" Suit in Britain

London.—A married man in England is safe from breach of promise action even if he has been granted a preliminary divorce decree.

The Court of Appeals has so decreed, upholding a decision of a lower court.

Miss Emily Fender, pretty twenty-seven-year-old brunette, a former nurse, brought a breach of promise action against Sir Anthony St. John-Mildmay.

Sir Anthony admitted he had made the promise to marry the plaintiff.

Miss Fender was awarded $10,000 by a jury in the King's Bench division.

Justice Hawke overruled the award, declaring he could not sustain a promise of marriage made between the date of a decree nisi and the date when the decree was to be made absolute.

Asserting such a promise was contrary to public policy, the justice pointed out it was possible for the wife of Sir Anthony to change her mind and appeal to her husband for a reconciliation.

The Court of Appeal received the case and upheld the decision of Justice Hawke.

Permission was granted Miss Fender to appeal to the house of lords, the Supreme court of the land. She announced she would probably take this step.

5 Deaths Attributed to Blizzard In New York

in many instances did not attempt to brave the storm.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boettinger son-in-law and daughter of President Roosevelt, were marooned at their Val-Kill cottage near Hyde Park. They attempted to drive a half mile to the main highway, were caught in a drift and hiked through drifts back to the cottage to spend the night.

At Buffalo coast guardsmen rescued Michael Scherer, 56, a caretaker, from a precarious perch in a small skiff after it became caught in an ice jam in the Niagara river.

More Snow Forecast

Temperatures ranged from near zero to fifteen above. More snow was forecast for many sections of the state.

Vassar College students returning after the week-end found Poughkeepsie's transportation facilities virtually paralyzed.

Drifts of from three to four feet deep were reported in rural sections with back roads almost universally blocked. The mountain village of Catskill was "marooned" with roads leading out of the hills blocked by drifts. Bus trips from New York into the Catskills were cancelled.

The snow, however, found weekend winter sports enthusiasts in the Adirondacks taking to ski trails by the hundreds. More than 1,000 winter sports fans made a "snow train" excursion from Utica to Old Forge during the height of the storm. The Adirondack section reported a foot to two feet of snow for the two days the storm raged.

In Albany it was feared that many of the legislators due to return to the Capital for the Monday night opening of the legislature would be storm-bound.

Poughkeepsie had ten inches of snow. At Lake Placid the fall totalled some 24 inches, as at Albany.

NINE TO TWENTY INCHES SNOWFALL IN CONNECTICUT

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 20 (AP)—Despite heavy snowfall Connecticut's rail and motor traffic maintained virtually a normal place today with only occasionally delays in the cities.

No deaths due to the storm were reported and Connecticut's week-end record of highway and other violent fatalities was reduced to absolute zero. Nine to 20 inches of snow fell in various sections.

The state highway department had 2,000 men and 300 trucks at work. In some places schools were closed temporarily.

At Milford, John Stewart, 21, and Clarence R. Elliott, Jr., 15, both of Milford, were rescued from an ice stranded rowboat in the Housatonic river after being exposed to yesterday's storm for three hours.

Flood Menace In Carolinas

Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—Rising streams brought the menace of extensive floods to the Carolinas today in the wake of a wind and rain storm which swirled over the two states yesterday, causing extensive property damage. There were a few scattered casualties, none of them, however, serious.

MELA - VIM

Positively Rejuvenates The Blood

STAR ROUTE SAVILTON NEWBURGH, N. Y. NOV. 8th, 1935.

MR. MELAHOURES:

Words are totally inadequate to express my appreciation of the benefit I have received from your medicine, MELA-VIM.

Being a Graduate Nurse from a famous British hospital; serving in the World War from 1914 until 1919; spending most of my time on the high seas; in Egypt, India, Dardanelles, etc., I think I am at liberty to speak from experience of the wonderful improvement MELA-VIM has made in me.

I have suffered for quite a number of years with the most terrible Headaches, sleepless nights, Rheumatism, Low Blood Pressure, Sallow Complexion. I was an absolute wreck—and last but not least, suffered Dizziness, which to me was terrible, for I was confined to my bed, unable to raise my head. A friend came to see me and recommended your medicine, telling me the wonders it had done for him. I decided to try it, and after taking the first two bottles I felt a great change come over me. I began to sleep, eat, and take on weight; headaches vanished, and only one slight attack of Dizziness. (Thanks to Mela-Vim). I have now taken ten bottles, and hope to take the complete course for I know it will take more for me than some people, owing to my run-down condition.

I only wish the whole world knew about Mela-Vim, for it surely brings HEALTH, (God's greatest gift) which money cannot buy. You are at liberty, Mr. Melahoures, to show my letter to anyone. I shall be delighted to answer any questions I am able to, and shall recommend it wherever I can.

Again allow me to thank you for the great benefit I have received from Mela-Vim. My husband intends to take a course when I have finished.

I shall be pleased to answer any question anytime.

Believe me,

Yours faithfully,

F. WAINWORTH SCOTT.

FACES TO ORDER

No longer need people go through life with "the face God gave them." It seems that, with the advice in plastic surgery, faces can be rebuilt like the facade of a house or store. Some of the plastic surgeons are telling the world about it. An advertisement observed in a metropolitan paper reads:

Noses changed in one visit. Rebuilt to match the contour of your face. Quick, painless, safe and permanent, without scars. Wrinkles and sagginess replaced by smooth, youthful contour. Wrinkled and puffy eyes rejuvenated. Large ears remodeled and set back. Scars, moles, varicose veins removed.

It sounds wonderful. Especially the design for remodelling and setting back ears that nature made unpleasantly prominent. And there is no question that expert surgeons, working with great skill and care, can do things like these, though hardly so painlessly, pleasantly and quickly as patients might hope. It is only right, however, to pass on a word of warning. It is well to consult one's family physician about this sort of thing. It is very delicate business. A patient might be so made over as not to be recognizable to his friends. And with careless handling, the results might be very painful and regrettable.

RADIO LICENSE FEES

Dear, dear! Now it comes out that there are "radio pirates" in law-abiding Great Britain. These are people who try to enjoy the blessings of radio without paying the annual license fee of ten shillings to the government. Britons who cheerfully pay income taxes, and voluntarily aid public financing by turning in bonds in exchange for others at lower interest, balk at the radio license fee. It is astounding.

The pirating won't go on indefinitely. Postoffice inspectors are rapidly tracking down the cheats. They travel around the country in a van equipped with a detector device that reveals illegal sets in operation. Many of the pirates themselves give away their guilty secret by calling up the British Broadcasting Company to complain about programs or to ask for help in eliminating static. This seems a little naive of the offenders, and suggests that they are new at the cheating game. On this side of the water the situation is interesting for two reasons. First, it shows that our British brethern are human, even as we. Second, it sheds light on the radio license system, sometimes discussed over here as a means of providing programs without advertising ballyhoo. Apparently it would be a difficult fee to collect.

VERSATILE BEANS

Guests at the opening dinner of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce Soybean Conference at Corsicana were confronted with a dinner the ingredients of which were soybeans and more soybeans. Every dish from the introductory soup, through the salad and its dressing, the meat substitute, the vegetables, the bread, the pie, to the coffee and the so-called milk was made with soybeans. The idea may have been to show the many food possibilities of the soybean. At any rate, the diners showed their loyalty to the subject of the conference.

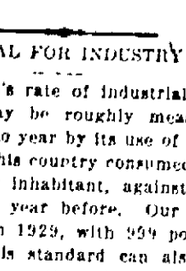

The dinner interests outsiders as an illustration of the rapid rise of soybean culture in the United States. In Asia it has been cultivated for human food since remote times. It came into this country chiefly because an oil made from it is extremely useful in the manufacture of paints, varnishes, soaps, lubricants, linoleum and various other items. It is cultivated widely now also as a forage and soiling crop. Perhaps the Texas soybean group expects to extend its use here as a food. There may be a lesson in the soybean application to other agricultural products. The more uses that may be discovered for any particular crop, the more profitable becomes its cultivation.

METAL FOR INDUSTRY

A nation's rate of industrial production may be roughly measured from year to year by its use of steel. Last year this country consumed 583 pounds per inhabitant, against 447 pounds the year before. Our high level was in 1929, with 999 pounds apiece. This standard can also be used to compare the industrial standing of nations. Last year, while we used 583 pounds of steel per capita, Belgium and Luxemburg used 492 pounds, Germany 491 pounds, Great Britain 430 pounds, France 237 pounds, Italy 163 pounds and Japan only 98 pounds.

We might soon be using more steel again in America than we did before the depression, especially if the expected use of this metal for houses develops. And if the customary rapid increase from year to year were resumed, here and abroad, there would be danger of all the iron in sight being used up in two or three generations. But we needn't start worrying about that yet. Forces are already at work to provide substitutes. Lighter metals and alloys are rapidly replacing steel, especially aluminum, which comes from clay. There is also rapid increase in the use of magnesium, our third most plentiful metal.

HOW TB IS BEING OVERCOME.

The first thought in treating a patient is to learn just what is causing the symptoms. Sometimes the symptoms are not very severe or pronounced and the physician has to make a number of examinations before he feels certain of the nature of the trouble.

Thus a few years ago when a young adult complained of being tired all the time and losing weight, the physician would suspect tuberculosis or "consumption" as it was then called, but there might not be much in the way of other symptoms to guide him. There might be very little cough, no pain in the chest, no spitting of blood.

However, since the discovery of the valuable help that an Xray of the chest can give, this method of examination is now used everywhere to prove or disprove the existence of a tuberculous spot or spots in the lung tissue.

When we remember that some years a victim of tuberculosis was doomed just as was a victim of pernicious anaemia and diabetes until quite recently, it is gratifying to know that the fight against tuberculosis is now successful. Thus during the past year the death rate from tuberculosis in North America is the lowest it has ever been.

The treatment has not varied during the past thirty years; it consists of fresh air and sunshine, rest, and nourishing food. When the temperature keeps at normal light exercise is given which is gradually increased up to five hours of light work daily. This outdoor exercise so strengthens the patient that when he returns home he is usually able to carry on at his regular occupation.

Rest is the biggest factor in the treatment because every movement of the body means that a little more air must be breathed into the lungs and if the lungs are to heal they also much be resting, as much as possible.

The one unfortunate circumstance that physicians are trying to overcome is the habit of some young girls (16 to 21 years of age) have acquired of trying to keep slim or slender. This lack of nourishing food and plenty of rest at this important time in their lives has caused the death rate to actually increase instead of decrease as it has at all the other ages during which tuberculosis is most active, that is 15 to 45.

THE BOOMERANG CLUE

By Agatha Christie

While Bobby Jones and Dr. Thomas are playing golf near their home in Wales they find a man dying at the foot of a cliff. But Bobby is haunted almost as much by the woman's face he saw on a photograph in the man's pocket as by the occurrence itself. He has been in London for a few days and on the train home he meets his friend Lady Frances Derwent a childhood friend whom he has not seen for some time. Frankie is bored with London and not too thrilled with the prospect of going home either.

Chapter Four

ABOUT BADGER

BOBBY'S relationship with Frankie was a peculiar one. As children he and his brothers had played with the children at the Castle. Now that they were all grown up, they seldom came across each other. When they did, they still used Christian names.

"I'm so tired of everything," said Frankie in a weary voice. "Aren't you?"

Bobby considered. "No, I don't think I am."

"My dear, how wonderful!" said Frankie.

"I don't mean I'm hearty," said Bobby, anxious not to create a painful impression. "I just can't stand people who are hearty."

Frankie shuddered at the mere mention of the word. "I know," she murmured. "They're dreadful."

They looked at each other sympathetically.

"By the way," said Frankie suddenly, "what's all this about a man falling over the cliffs?"

"Dr. Thomas and I found him," said Bobby. "How did you know about it, Frankie?"

"Saw it in the paper. Look."

SHE indicated with her finger a small paragraph headed "Fatal Accident in Sea Mist."

> The victim of the tragedy at Marchbolt was identified late last night by means of a photograph which he was carrying. The photograph proved to be that of Mrs. Leo Cayman.
> Mrs. Cayman was communicated with and journeyed at once to Marchbolt where she identified the deceased as her brother, Alex Pritchard. Mr. Pritchard had recently returned from Siam. He had been out of England for ten years and was just starting upon a walking tour. The inquest will be held at Marchbolt tomorrow.

Bobby's thoughts flew back to the strangely haunting face of the photograph. "I believe I shall have to give evidence at the inquest," he said.

"How thrilling! I shall come and hear you."

"I don't suppose there will be anything thrilling about it," said Bobby. "We just found him, you know."

"Was he dead?"

"No—not then. He died about a quarter of an hour later. I was alone with him." He paused.

"Rather grim," said Frankie with that immediate understanding that Bobby's father had lacked.

"Of course he didn't feel anything."

"No?"

"But all the same—well—you see, he looked awfully alive that sort of person—rather a rotten way to finish—just stepping off a cliff in a silly bit of mist."

"I get you, Steve," said Frankie and again the queer phrase represented sympathy and understanding. "Did you see the sister?" she asked presently.

"No. I've been up in town two days. Had to see a friend of mine about a garage business we're going in for. You remember him Badger Bassett?"

"Do I?"

"Of course you do. You must remember good old Badger. He squints."

Frankie wrinkled her brows.

"He's got an awfully silly kind of laugh. Haw, haw, haw like that," continued Bobby helpfully.

STILL Frankie wrinkled her brows.

"Fell off his pony when we were kids," continued Bobby. "Stuck in the mud head-down, and we had to pull him out by the legs."

"Oh!" said Frankie in a flood of recollection. "I know now. He stammered."

"He still does," said Bobby proudly.

"Didn't he run a chicken farm and it went bust?" inquired Frankie.

"That's right."

"And then he went into a stockbroker's office and they fired him after a month?"

"That's it."

"And then they sent him to Australia and he came back?"

"Yes."

"Bobby," said Frankie, "you're not putting any money into this business venture, I hope?"

"I haven't got any money to put," said Bobby.

"That's just as well," said Frankie.

"Naturally," went on Bobby, "Badger has tried to get hold of someone with a little capital to invest. But it isn't so easy as you'd think."

"When you look round you," said Frankie, "you wouldn't believe people had any sense at all, but they have."

The point of these remarks seemed at last to strike Bobby.

"Look here, Frankie," he said, "Badger's one of the best—one of the very best."

"They always are," said Frankie.

"Who are?"

"The ones who go to Australia and come back again. How did he get hold of the money to start this business?"

"An aunt or something died and left him a garage for six cars, with three rooms over, and his people stumped up a hundred pounds to buy second-hand cars with. You'd be surprised what bargains there are to be had in second-hand cars."

"I bought one once," said Frankie. "It's a painful subject. Don't let's talk of it. What did you want to leave the Navy for? They didn't ask you, did they? Not at your age."

Bobby flushed. "Eyes," he said gruffly.

It was just after five o'clock when they reached Silebam, which was the station for Marchbolt.

"The car's meeting me," said Frankie. "I'll give you a lift."

"Thanks. That will save me carrying this beastly thing for two miles." He kicked his suitcase disparagingly.

"Three miles, not two," said Frankie.

"Two miles if you go by the footpath over the links."

"The one where—"

"Yes where that fellow went over."

"I suppose nobody pushed him over, did they?" asked Frankie as she handed her dressing-case to her maid.

"Pushed him over? Good Lord, no. Why?"

"Well, it would make it much more exciting, wouldn't it?" said Frankie idly.

Each carried a large white, red or blue circle with the year of service inscribed in black at the center. As Mrs. Scholefield read the year, each held the circle above the head and when it was completed, it formed the American flag. It made a beautiful picture.

A special table was arranged for the past councilors decorated in red, white and blue with a large bouquet of red carnations in the center. Favors were candles made of candy. Mrs. Scholefield made a cake decorated with the words, "Past Councilors". Supper was served at 11:30 o'clock.

Those who accompanied the deputy from Kingston were Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Gerhardt, Mrs. Carrie Kiet and Mildred Decker, councilor of Vanderlyn. Besides speeches by the visitors, Mrs. R. H. Decker gave an address in her usual pleasing manner.

A Scrabble Pal Club was formed after the meeting. Each one present wrote name and address, date of birth or other anniversaries on a slip. The slips were dropped in a box and then each one drew a name. The pals drawn were kept secret. The object is to send cards for holidays, birthdays, etc., to your sunshine pal. At the end of the year, a party will be held at which time the identity of your pal will be divulged. Mrs Harry Cotant had charge of the organization. The next meeting will be February 5. Refreshments are in charge of Misses Doris Relyea, Grace Relyea, Emma Paltridge, Mrs. Royal Reed, Mrs. Grace Relyea, Mrs. Rachel Rowley, Lorin Schantz, and Mrs. Martha C. Schantz.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—The widespread speculation among politicians as to the political effect of the supreme court's decision sweeping AAA into discard, thus perhaps foreshadowing the fate of other "new deal" measures, was prevalent in the capital long before the justices had spoken.

While the AAA amendments, the Guffey coal bill and the social security measures were being debated in the last session of congress, the question was discussed frequently and at length.

Time and again this question was posed: if the measures were thrown out on constitutional grounds, would it lead to a complete public revolt against the administration? Or, would President Roosevelt, as a candidate for reelection, gain votes for trying to improve the status of the underprivileged and the victims of predatory business, and be in time given legal instruments to improve them?

F. D. R.'s Words Cited

POLITICIANS thought then, and they do now, that the administration believes the answer to the latter question is "Yes."

The President's opening words in his Jackson Day dinner address, that "the real issue before the United States is the right of the average man and woman to lead a finer, a better and a happier life," are cited in support of their contention.

His further reference in the same address to the fact that the people understand the government "seeks to give them a square deal and a better deal—seeks to protect them and to save them from being plowed under by the small minority of businessmen and financiers, against whom I shall continue to wage war" is taken as additional evidence of the administration's belief.

In the face of a unanimous decision on NRA, the administration pushed on.

Prophetic Warnings

GOOD lawyers, some of them on the Democratic side, warned of the dangers that lay ahead. In the light of the AAA decision their warnings now seem almost prophetic.

They argued that the requirement of an employers' payroll tax for all classes of employes, even those for whom no social insurance is to be provided, is plainly unconstitutional. And the Guffey bill arrangement, whereby 99 per cent of a special federal tax on coal operators is to be refunded to those who conform to a wage, hour and production code, was characterized as coercion which the taxation clause in the constitution does not legitimize.

TALKS TO PARENTS

Dates As Hooks

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

One of the complaints made of the old-fashioned way of teaching history is that it insisted too much on dates, and especially on dates of reigns and wars. Granted that this was true, and that there was no particular virtue in being able to rattle off the kings of England, the dates of the Wars of the Roses, or of the American Revolution, is the other extreme an improvement?

Today one learns economics, folk-movements, the evolution of ideas in history. But if one does not know the order in which they occurred or what the general political status of the world was at the time, of what value are these facts?

A brilliant teacher of history some 40 years ago explained to each of her classes:

"You need a certain number of dates to act as hooks on which to hang things. No matter how large and well stocked your cupboards may be, if you have no hooks or shelves, the contents are tossed about in heaps, get mixed up, and are impossible to find."

She had a list of dates, a few to each century all down the ages. These the pupils learned, and to them they related the rest of their history.

It makes little difference which dates one chooses. They may be series of wars, or a line of rulers, or a record of the great conclaves of the world. So long as one knows these few dates and what the events which occurred on these occasions meant, one can study history, geography, literature, art, philosophy, economics, even language with some degree of intelligent understanding.

There is some point in knowing which came first, the Magna Carta or the Reform bills, and only dates can help to fix the order.

Sundown Stories

Willy Nilly's Visit

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WILLY NILLY, the little gnome-like man, was not bothering about his chores now, or all the things he had planned to do before attending to his sticking-out, pointed ears.

He was worried about Top Notch, the rooster, who was staying away in his General Store and not returning again to Willy Nilly's. There were times, of course, when the different Puddle Muddlers were busy with their own work, their own plans or adventures, but Tor Notch's strange behavior had puzzled Willy Nilly too much.

He put on his out-of-door clothes and went down the snowy road to Top Notch's.

He knocked on the door, and then he imagined he heard some excitement from within.

"It's Willy Nilly," he called out.

There was a moment's silence, and then Tor Notch said:

"I'm ever so sorry, Willy Nilly, but can't let you in right now."

Willy Nilly hesitated.

"Are you all right, Top Notch? Do you feel quite well? Will you be up to see us soon?" he asked.

"Yes, yes, cock-a-doodle-do," answered Top Notch.

"Do you want anything more to eat?" asked Willy Nilly. "I could bring you down something."

There seemed to be a whispering going on inside the shed. Willy Nilly thought, and then Top Notch answered:

"Oh, I'd be most grateful if you could bring some food down if it's not too much trouble, plenty of food," he added. His appetite had not gone back on him, reflected Willy Nilly.

Political Stage Set For Broadsides in the Gubernatorial Drive

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 20 (AP).—Legislators returning to a storm-swept capital for the opening tonight of the fourth week of the 159th session find the political stage set for what may provide the first broadsides in the 1936 presidential and gubernatorial campaigns.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders are putting the final touches on plans for throwing the spotlight on three major subjects.

The Republican-sponsored bill for an investigation of unemployment.

Governor Herbert H Lehman's budget and tax recommendations.

The governor's 60-point anti-crime program.

Speculation as to what they may provide as campaign ammunition in President Roosevelt's home state overshadowed an apparently light program for the coming week.

Several Republican program measures are ready for action in the Assembly, but they are considered to have little chance of passage in the Democratic controlled Senate. Among them is a proposal to submit to the electrorate next fall the question of whether a constitutional convention should be held in 1937.

They have set February 4, 11 and 12 for public hearings on the chief executive's fiscal program, and plan similar public airings later in the same month on the Brownell bill proposing an inquiry into unemployment.

In scheduling independent hearings on the budget and tax recommendations, the G. O. P. declined an invitation of Democratic legislative leaders to join the Senate in public meetings. This refusal is expected to bring a rejoinder from the Democrats within a day or two.

The Brownell bill originally called for an appropriation of $25,000 but Governor Lehman informed Republican leaders he was prohibited under the state constitution from sending an emergency message to the legislature asking its approval until the budget is passed.

Inasmuch as the budget is not likely to be considered until mid-March and seeking immediate action, the Republicans reintroduced the measure without the appropriation clause and proceeded with plans for a separate hearing.

The Senate has set January 28 for a public hearing on the governor's anti-crime recommendations. Last week, after passage of three bills designed to combat the criminal the Senate deferred on several other measures because some members of both parties protested the legislation was loosely drawn

Senator Joseph Clark Baldwin, New York Republican, plans to introduce a resolution tonight urging the legislation again to ask Congress for legislation to permit New York state to enact laws to protect its citizens against the bringing of firearms into the state after their purchase in other states.

In the Assembly, Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat, another New Yorker, plans to introduce a bill to eliminate holding uncontested primary elections. He called no-contest primaries an "extravagant farce."

Town of Kingston Republican Club

The Republicans of the town of Kingston met at Reiff's Hall January 14 to organize a Republican Club. There were 24 members present. The following officers were elected: President, Henry Charlton; vice president, Herman Reiff; secretary, Samuel Whittaker; recording secretary, Grace Whittaker; treasurer, Rollne Schreivogel.

At the close of the meeting frankfurters, sauerkraut, rolls and coffee were served. The charter members are: Esther Burns, Catherine Callahan, Francis Charlton, Henry Charlton, Sadie Charlton, David Hanrahan, William Hanrahan, James Leahy, Ellen B. Keep AHEAD of the JONESES

THERE'S just one way to be "better off" than the other people on your street. . . . In order to keep ahead, you must think and act first. And that can be done by any one who decides to do it, whatever the family income.

For instance, some people are smart enough to buy things when prices are down. Right now, of course, you can find sheets and towels and other supplies for the house at lowest-this-year prices. And that isn't all. . . . Some time this winter you will find underwear for the children, gloves for yourself, pajamas for the head of the house—and many, many more things offered at 'way-down prices.

All sorts of special buys will keep bobbing up, if you watch the advertisements in this newspaper—and keep thinking ahead, and buying ahead.

Where will you get all the money, you ask? . . . Well, it doesn't take more money to be better off, this way. Actually it takes less. The pennies you save by timely buying add up to dollars in the end.

Be an Optimistic Optimist

Be an optimistic optimist, no matter how you feel;
If doubt or gloom assails you work on with greater zeal.
Think always of the sunshine behind
the lowering sky;
You can rise above depression if you let ill-thought go by.
What you think within your heart
will shape your life each day;
The antidote for worry is to smile dull care away.
It is better to be pleasant than to wear a frowning face;
All good things work together to promote a happy race.
Be an optimistic optimist, ignore depressing things;
The man that wins life's prizes is the man who smiles and sings.

Native—Liberal! I should say so. They are so liberal that nobody ever heard of a woman crying at a wedding there.

Scottsboro Case

Decatur, Ala., Jan. 20 (AP)—Rumors of a "mystery move" by the defense persisted today as attorneys prepared to make their final effort for a change of venue for the re-trial of the nine negroes in the Scottsboro case. Counsel for the negroes declined to comment on the reports or otherwise discuss their plans before taking the defendants into court to hear Judge W. W. Callahan's ruling on the motion. The defense seeks to shift the trial from Jackson county where Scottsboro is located. The attorneys have charged that "prejudice and fixed opinion" prevent the holding of a "fair trial" here.

MARIAN MARTIN DESIGNS A SPRING FROCK FOR 'TEENS AND TWENTIES

PATTERN 9760.

From noon to midnight, this gay young frock's always on the "go," and twice as wearable for being a two-piece style. 'Teens and twenties will want to make it up for Spring (though it's right for now and mid-season) and the brighter the crepe—the liveller the print—the more compliments it's likely to receive. Isn't the blouse a delightful bit of styling all by itself—with flattering round yoke, shirred touches at sleeves and bodice, and that little open triangle there at the throat? The skirt's one you'll want to wear occasionally with an extra blouse, its center seam and pretty knee flare in keeping with youthful simplicity. A very easy style to make, too, so get busy right away. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9760 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Send for our new spring pattern book, and take the guesswork out of planning and making your new clothes: Its many smart, practical designs will show you new ways to look your charming best, new ways to use the latest Spring fabrics, new ways to stretch your budget. Special flattering designs for stout figures. Patterns for the whole family. Price of book fifteen cents, book and a pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Send your order to The Kingston Freeman Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th street, New York, N. Y.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Vivid prints are definitely in the spring fashion picture—and well received, too, by the smartly gowned woman.

Many of these attractive gowns are showing separate jackets, long flowing scarfs, panels or sashes of a harmonizing solid color to tone down the bright, gay colors of these exotic prints.

"This print mania" is not only true of formal fashions but the chic woman is already choosing a gay print for afternoon wear to perk up her winter wardrobe. Much self pleating is used on these frocks either on sleeves, or entire skirts or at the bottom for that "hobble-skirt" effect.

The glamorous jacketed gown sketched above shows a vivid print color topped by a solid royal blue jacket for less formal affairs.

A low V-neckline at front terminates with a huge bunch of leaves for excitement—and twisted shoulder straps go over to form a low V-back.

The accompanying waist-length jacket of crepe ties with a self sash at the waist and has gracefully full push-up sleeves.

This new knit boasts a lacy weave

PATTERN 5318

All who knit will bubble with excitement when they learn this flattering young blouse is a "jiffy knit" and easy to make. In lacy stitch, for the most part, the yoke's just plain knitting, and how smoothly it fits! Grand in Shetland floss for Spring or Summer; you may knit a plain skirt, too.

In pattern 5318 you will find instructions for making the blouse and skirt in sizes 16-18 and 38-40; an illustration of the blouse and of all stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

ADD BEAUTY TO ROOM WITH HEALTHY FERNS

How are your ferns looking these winter days? Green and plumy and fine, or yellowed and straggly?

Ferns are not a bit difficult to keep healthy, but they just won't stand neglect. Drafts, sudden changes of temperature, gas, or hot, dry air will spoil the strongest fern.

Try to keep them in a temperature of 60 to 65 degrees; if they must be where it is warmer, see that the air is moist. Check up on gas from a gas stove, coal gas from the furnace, gas from nearby factories.

And have you been keeping up with some of the newer things in ferns? An uncommonly handsome feathery fern is the Cibotium Schiedel, the Mexican Tree Fern, sketch 1. It grows more upright than the popular Boston Fern, and so can be placed on tables and desks without swishing its leaves down too low.

Asplenium nidus Avis, sketch 2, Bird's-Nest Fern to you, has rich green fronds that stand up straight, looks well in a modern room.

The fruit dots appear in straight lines that look as though they had been sketched in with a pencil in an up-to-date pattern.

Equally straight-leaved and novel is Platycerium Alcigorne Major, the Stag-Horn Fern, sketch 3. This fern, when wild, has a way of growing on the trunk of a tree, or on either side of a rock, with its curiously shaped fronds sticking out on either side like stag horns.

Most florists carry these ferns, and nearly all catalogs list them.

This is the critical time of year for ferns, and if yours are beginning to look straggly or morose, or if your other house plants are puzzling you by their winter behavior, get sound advice from a practical horticulturist in our 40-page Home Institute booklet, SUCCESS WITH HOUSE PLANTS AND FLOWERS.

One plant allowed to die from incorrect care costs much more than this helpful, practical illustrated guide.

ADMIRAL BYRD LEARNED TO SING "HOME ON THE RANGE."

San Francisco, Jan. 20 (AP).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd learned to sing—one song—during that long antarctic night he spent alone at the end of the earth.

"They never let me learn to sing at home," he related here today. "Whatever I'd try, they'd stop me."

But, at his advance base deep in the south polar regions, there was no one to stop him. The admiral said he became oppressed with the stillness, the unbroken silence. So he learned to sing.

"I had a gramophone," he said, "and a record of a song—'Home on the range.' I learned to sing that. The gramophone would freeze up every night and I'd have to put it on the stove and thaw it out."

Bonus Measure To Pass Senate Today

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP).—Congress concentrated today on getting the 16-year-old bonus issue out of the way before turning in earnest to other major problems of the times—neutrality and farm relief.

Slightly behind schedule, the Senate determined to pass the "baby bond" bonus measure this afternoon while the House more or less marked time, and members of both chambers kept an eye on a supreme court session in which the fate of the Tennessee Valley power program might be decided.

Only one amendment remained to be considered before the final vote on the bill to pay off adjusted service certificates in $50 bonds cashable next June 15. Offered by Senator King (D-Utah), it would pay only the present cash surrendered value of the certificates instead of the 1945 maturity value.

This amendment was expected by most legislators to meet defeat, as other changes did last week. The Senate leaders had hoped to pass the bonus bill on Saturday, but so many members had dinner engagements that a proposed night session was called off and the vote delayed until today.

All agreed that the Senate would approve the measure overwhelmingly, and that it would gain the enthusiastic endorsement of the House, where it may be taken up tomorrow.

Then the next move will be up to the President, who vetoed the inflationary Patman bill last session, but has said nothing about the present bill.

Roosevelt Hints At Bonus Action

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—A reference in President Roosevelt's address dedicating a $3,500,000 memorial to his cousin, the late Theodore Roosevelt, was studied today for its possible bearing on the soldiers' bonus legislation before Congress.

Paying tribute yesterday to the former President's efforts to further social justice, Mr. Roosevelt quoted from a Fourth of July speech by his relative:

"A man who is good enough to shed his blood for his country is good enough to be given a square deal afterward. More than that no man is entitled to, and less than that no man shall have."

The dedicatory services, during which the memorial building became a section of the American Museum of Natural History, drew an assemblage of prominent officials.

Gov. Herbert Lehman, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, the former President's son, and Dr. James R. Garfield, president of the Roosevelt Memorial Commission, also spoke.

"With clearness of vision, energy, unfaltering faith, he labored through his entire strenuous career to transform politics from a corrupt traffic to a public service," the President said of his predecessor in the White House.

Statements expressing "T. R.'s" thoughts against corruption in public officials "are no less true today than 40 years ago," Governor Lehman declared.

President Theodore Roosevelt "saw the necessity of keeping both the legislatures and the courts in their proper places," Mayor LaGuardia declared.

"He would not permit the Constitution to be used as an instrument of oppression or as a justification for special privilege."

The former President's son, accepting the memorial, said he was sure his father would have been proud of the building because it was associated with natural history which was "his greatly loved avocation."

The meeting sent a message to Mrs. Edith Kermit Roosevelt, the former President's widow, who is in a Long Island Hospital.

"LOADED SHELL" IN ATTIC REVEALS ALSATIAN FORTUNE

Haguenau, Alsace (AP)—Workmen repairing the attic of an old house stumbled on a rusty shell which artillerymen carried away to their barracks.

On unscrewing the cap they found the shell was fully loaded—with gold coins to the value of $13,300.

The martial savings box belonged to a former owner of the house now dead. Authorities are searching for his heirs.

Is Fish Seeking The Presidency?

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 20 (AP)—Representative Hamilton Fish, (R.-N. Y.) asked the secretary of state today for copies of forms for filing as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

He also requested copies of laws governing the May 12 primary.

West Virginia's delegates to the national conventions are to be selected in the same primary and if the voters indicate their choice for presidential nominee the delegates are bound to support him.

Representative Fish in a letter to Secretary of State William S. O'Brien, gave no indication whether he wanted the blanks and information for himself or others.

The last day for filing as a candidate is April 12, but O'Brien said since that day is Sunday, he is advising all candidates to give their notice by April 11.

Representative Fish wrote:

"Will you please advise me concerning the official date of the primary in your state this year for the election of delegates to the Republican National Convention in June.

"Also, please let me know what is the last date for filing as regards presidential candidates and send me a copy of the proper nominating blanks for such candidates.

"If it is possible I would appreciate it if you would send me a copy of your election laws particularly as relates to these primaries and the election of delegates to the national convention."

Gerda Thomas Making Long Trip on Her Skis

Miss Gerda Thomas of New York city, who is a member of the Winter Sports Association of Woodstock where she has been serving as ski instructor, left Woodstock at 4:35 o'clock this morningon her skis and checked in at the police headquarters here at 8:54 o'clock.

Miss Thomas is endeavoring to make a trip to New York city on her skis and stopped off in Kingston to have breakfast. She left the city hall about 9:30 o'clock this morning and planned to make Newburgh her next stop where she expects to check in at police headquarters there.

Her idea of stopping at police headquarters between here and New York was so that a record could be kept of her ski trip.

Miss Thomas is the New York city representative of the association.

Today

Broadway: "Magnificent Obsession." Lloyd C. Douglas, minister turned novelist and now recognized as one of the finest authors of today, should be proud of this Universal picture that has been made into an inspiring screen drama as it closely follows the novel through the sweep and strength of a woman's love and brings to life one of the most unusual romances in modern fiction. A brillian starring team of Irene Dunne and Robert Taylor leads a carefully chosen cast of supporting players through the intricate plot structure of the story and Miss Dunne's performance proves all over again her reputation as one of the cinema's ranking actresses. And handsome Robert Taylor rises to a new high with his portrayal. Others include Betty Furness, Charles Butterworth, Ralph Morgan, Henry Armetta, Arthur Treacher and Sara Haden. John M. Stahl produced and directed the picture. Excellent adult entertainment.

Orpheum. Spencer Tracy is starred in "Sky Devils," a picture that brings to the screen plenty of thrills in the air. William Boyd and George E. Cooper are in the supporting cast.

Kingston: "Ah Wilderness." This Eugene O'Neill play, so successful on Broadway, becomes a motion picture high light because its adaptation to the screen has been perfect through the joint efforts of Hunt Stromberg, its producer, and Clarence Brown, its director. The play is a glimpse into the life of an ordinary middle class Connecticut family. The family moves along the familiar rut most average American families adhere to until the son gets the pangs of adolescent love. Hurt by what seems to be a broken ideal in his love for a girl, in disillusionment he goes in for a bit of wild living on a grand scale until his background and his strong family influence combine to straighten out his momentary lapse. Lionel Barrymore, as the father, contributes the outstanding characterization of the show but he is pressed for honors by both Wallace Berry and Aline MacMahon. Others in the cast are Mickey Rooney, Eric Linden, Frank Albertson, Cecelia Parker, Charles Grapewin and Spring Bylington. A don't miss attraction.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—About Cesar Romero, a Latin who has proved he wants none of the "second Valentino" exploitation:

Cesar Romero

His full name is Cesar Julio Romero, the Spanish form of Julius Caesar. . . . His family liked famous names, but did not dream this son would get a share of fame in the celluloid world. . . . The name used to be a source of embarrassment when he was a schoolboy in New York, because the other kids would always titter when it was called.

Began As A Dancer

Cesar Romero is a New Yorker by birth, Cuban by descent. . . . His mother was Maria Mantilla, Cuban concert singer, his father Cesar Romero, which makes him a junior. . . . His mother's uncle, Jose Marti, is noted in Cuban history. . . . Cesar was born February 15, 1907. . . .

He is 6 feet two inches tall, weighs 170 pounds . . . and thinks he should weigh more, but can't gain . . . He has black hair and dark brown eyes, and that "sleek foreign look" which once was sufficient in itself to assure screen success. . . .

Like Valentino and George Raft, he began theatrically as a dancer. . . . He was working in a New York bank when Lisbeth Higgins, a society girl with dancing ambitions, chose him as a partner. . . . He danced (with her and other partners) in clubs, roof gardens and shows. . . . He danced in "Lady Do" in 1927 and was in "Street Singer" . . . He got his "big break" when he took Tullio Carminati's role in the road show of "Strictly Dishonorable." . . .

Lucky In Pictures

He thinks he has been very lucky in pictures. . . . Even "The Devil Is a Woman" did him good, although it helped practically nobody else in it. . . . He wants to keep on playing a variety of parts, romantic or villainous, if they are good roles. . . .

He is a bachelor, lives alone now although soon his sister is coming from New York. . . . He dines at Pickfair, goes to skating rinks, and plays the games at beach resorts. . . . Frequently his companion is Virginia Bruce, but they are "just good friends"—as usual. . . .

TURKISH CENSUS REQUIRES CITIZENS TO STAY AT HOME

Washington (AP)—The method of taking the census in Turkey is probably the most accurate of any recorded throughout the world, consular reports here indicate.

On the census day, all the inhabitants of Turkey are required to remain in their homes from 5 a. m. until a signal gun announces the end of the recording. The only exceptions are for foreign diplomats, workers in public utility plants, police, firemen, soldiers on duty and a few others.

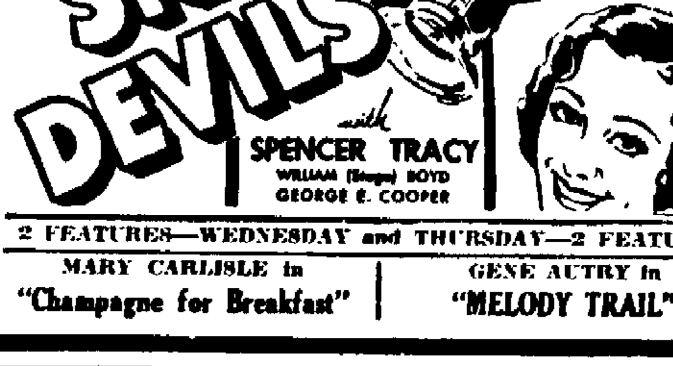

Taxicabs are not permitted to operate during the period of enumeration; street car service is suspended; places of amusement closed and even doctors are not allowed to leave their homes without special permits.

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Stocks found the going a little difficult in today's market.

A few of the aircrafts rallied, but the majority of the leaders were unable to display any bullish fervor Losses of fractions to around a point predominated in exceptionally quiet trading.

Commodities were of no assistance to equities. Grains were listless and cotton, generally, pointed lower Bonds were somewhat irregular and the dollar improved on relation to the principal foreign exchanges Shares of Douglas Aircraft got up 2 points, and Boeing, Wright Aeronautical and Curtiss-Wright "A" firmed. Slightly higher also were Standard Oil of California, Montgomery Ward and Commonwealth & Southern. Among the losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, N. Y. Central, Sears Roebuck, American Sugar Refining, Westinghouse, Deere, American Locomotive, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, Kennecott, U. S. Smelting and Cerro De Pasco.

In no country are systems of preserving food more advanced than in America. The canning and curing of fruits, vegetables, and meats has made it possible to obtain them in wholsome form any day of the year.

Cornell has a bulletin that discusses recipes for curing various kinds of meats. It tells what meats and ingredients to use, what equipment is needed, and how to do the work.

BROWN BOMBER BLASTS RETZLAFF IN BRIEF BOUT

The dynamite-laden fists of Joe Louis doused a few lethal blasts as he quickly concluded the work of putting away Charley Retzlaff after one minute and 25 seconds of their scheduled 15 round bout at Chicago. Here is the finish with Louis being waved to his corner by the referee as Retzlaff sprawls helplessly on the floor. (Associated Press Photo.)

RETZLAFF DOWN—FIRST TIME

Hardly had the opening gong sounded before Charley Retzlaff hit the canvass when he stepped into the ring for his bout with Joe Lewis in Chicago. Here is Retzlaff on the floor with Louis swaying over him a few seconds after the fight started. The knockdown was followed by a fleeting minute later with a kayo. The fight lasted only one minute and 25 seconds of the first round. (Associated Press Photo.)

Asks Dismissal Of Talmadge Suit

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP).—Dismissal of a suit filed by Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia challenging constitutionality of the Bankhead cotton control act was asked by the government today in a reply filed with the Supreme Court.

Another suit against the Bankhead act was dismissed by the court last Monday on jurisdictional grounds. The Talmadge case has been before the court for some time, but no date has been set for argument.

"This cause," the government's reply to the Talmadge suit said, "is not maintainable in this court for the reason that the United States is the real defendant and it may not be sued without its consent."

Georgie Glasco Now With Cities Service

Georgie Glasco, former Paterson player in the American League, will be in the Kingston Uniform Wednesday night for the locals' tilt with the Jersey Reds. Glasco was released recently by the Paterson club and was picked up by Frank Morgenweck, who thinks Georgie will be of use to the Cities Service lineup. Glasco was at Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn, Sunday night but did not get into the game. Kingston took an early lead and stayed out in front, so Morgenweck made no change in the lineup.

Cycads Were Prominent Millions of Years Ago

Cycads are members of an ancient family far more numerous in past ages. Fossil species are found in many lands where they flourished as the dominant plant life millions of years ago.

Botanists call that era the "Age of Cycads." Zoologists, ignoring manimate life, re of it as the "Age of Reptiles." And it is shown as the latter in all geological charts, notes a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

This era in the world's history is named the Mesozoic, a Greek word meaning "middle." The earliest period of this era termed the Cretaceous was fourth in what is called the ages of life. Invertebrated fishes, amphibians, reptiles and mammals; man appearing in the after part of the mammal phase, following the Glacial or Ice age. The fourth one, age of reptiles and cycads immediately preceded the one where Australia existed most as it is today with her kangaroos, cycads, and tree ferns.

Since that time tree ferns have developed in other tropical lands, cycads in tropics and subtropics, but no other types of kangaroos have appeared, and only one other animal of the same family, the American opossum. Simultaneously with the latter, doubtless, came the American cycads, of which there are about 30 species. These are rather widely distributed over the tropical and subtropical parts of the Western hemisphere.

Daniel McGugin Died on Sunday

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 20 (AP)—Death has closed the career of Daniel Earl McGugin, "grand old man of southern football" and Vanderbilt's head coach for three decades. He was 56 years old.

McGugin died unexpectedly of a heart attack while visiting John R. Aust, his law partner.

The funeral was set tentatively for Tuesday.

McGugin's death cast a pall of gloom over Dixie universities, as he was dean of the south's football coaches.

Born on an Iowa farm, he was a graduate of the University of Michigan Law School and a member of the great "point-a-minute" teams of Ann Arbor.

McGugin came south in 1904 to take over the football coaching post at Vanderbilt. He held that position for 31 years and several years ago added to it that of athletic director.

His first commodore team in 1904 swept aside eight opponents for an undefeated season.

One of his proudest accomplishments was in holding Michigan to a 0-0 tie in 1922 when that team was coached by his old mentor, Fielding H. Yost. He also scored notable intersectional victories over Minnesota, Ohio State and Carlisle.

He handed the active coaching reins over to Ray Morrison after the completion of the 1934 season, retaining his title of athletic director, in order to devote more time to his law practice and because he thought he had "served long enough."

His life was filled with many honors, one of which was the presidency of the National Football Coaches Association in 1933.

Surviving are his widow and three children, Mrs. Pugh C. Moore, Dan E. McGugin, Jr., a member of his father's law firm, and Leonard McGugin, student in the Vanderbilt Law School.

Snow No Barrier for Morgenweck's Players

Frank Morgenweck and his American League basketballers arrived in Kingston this morning at 5:30 from their cage wars in Union City and Brooklyn, having run their seven passenger "Big Blue Monster" through the snow that retarded their progress but did not stop them. The journey was a tedious one, though, and kept three drivers busy. Lefty Kintzing, Horse Meyers and Captain Carlie Husta alternated at the wheel. Frank Shimek slept throughout the journey and Tiny Hearn, the "Georgia Peach," was afraid to leave New York, so remained. Corky Stanton was not with the team. He was marooned in a snowdrift outside of Albany Sunday morning.

WALDEN MAN CATCHES GIANT PIKE HERE

On Saturday, January 11, Russell Verity, one of a party of six men fishing through the ice on Esopus Lake near Port Ewen, caught a big fish. It was a pike perch, 26½ inches long, tipping the scales at exactly seven pounds, 12 ounces. Verity and the other members of the party, Wright and Robert Maines of Kingston, Alex Maines of Binnewater, Fred Roeburk and Russell Verity, Jr., of Walden fished all day long and quite far into the evening, catching only a few smaller fish, when Verity caught what is possibly the largest pike perch, also known as wall eyed pike, taken from the Esopus Lake in several years. The total catch of the day was nine pickerel, one large yellow perch and five pike perch.

"ORGAN PIPE" NECKLACE IS NEW ACCESSORY

Paris (AP)—An "organ pipe" necklace is something new in accessories this winter. It is made of a series of tiny gilded pipes which resemble those of an organ, strung on a cord and lying in a fringed effect about the throat.

Cities Service Trims Jewels, 25-18, Loses To Jersey Reds By 26-38

Frank Morgenweck's Cities Service tossers broke even in their American Basketball League schedule Sunday, losing to the Jersey Reds at Union City in the afternoon, 26-38, and winning from the New York Jewels at Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn, Sunday night, 25-18.

The Morgenweckers' victory helped them to retain the prestige they enjoy as one of the chief quintets contending for the second half laurels in the American circuit. Kingston wanted to defeat the Reds more than they did the New Yorkers however. They will get another crack at the Jerseyites Wednesday night in the Municipal Auditorium. Sunday's win was the second for Kingston over the Jewels, the locals having tripped them here last Wednesday 25-19.

Last night the Reds defeated the Visitations by the overwhelming score of 41-20. It was announced after the Kingston game in Arcadia Hall.

Both of Kingston's duels yesterday were gruelling contests. The Morgenweckers were extended to the limit and personal feuds marked the battles all the way. At Brooklyn, Carlie Husta and Rip Gerson fought a hand to hand encounter that was broken up by the police. Husta said Rip was using "dirty" tactics, and when he refused to heed warnings the Kingston captain cuffed him. Gerson got up at the count of 10 and continued play in a milder manner.

Husta and Kintzing were the high scorers for Kingston against the Jewels, tallying 9 and seven points respectively. Mac Kinsbrunner, playing manager of the New Yorkers, made 7 for his club. The Gasoliners took an 11-5 lead in the first period and stayed in the van throughout.

Frank Shimek did the bulk of the scoring to keep the Morgies in the running at Union City. "Shimy" dropped in five fields and four fouls for 14 points. Frankel made 12 for the Reds. Kingston enjoyed a two point lead, 10-8, at the end of the first period. They dropped back in the second though, scoring only five points to 12 for the Unions. In the third and last stanza, the Jersey boys made 18 markers. Kingston scored 11.

18 Storm Deaths In the Southeast

Chipley, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP)—Bitter winds and rising rivers harassed the southeast today in the wake of week-end storms which killed 18 persons in three states.

Temperatures in the low 20's prevailed over a half dozen states. Rivers rose dangerously in southern Alabama, northern Florida and east Tennessee. A blanket of snow added to the discomfort of middle Tennessee.

This north Florida town was the hardest hit as tornadoes provided lethal highlights to a large storm area which moved rapidly northeastward from the gulf and today was blowing itself out along the Carolina-Virginia coast.

Eight persons were killed here Saturday in this vicinity and 25 injured, one probably fatally. Damage of about $50,000 was reported.

The tornado exacted its heaviest toll when it wiped out six members of the Dykes family as it smashed his farm home near here.

Dan Dykes, his wife and four children, ranging from 16 months to 10 years, were almost instantly killed.

The Steamship F. S. Ipswitch was believed to be in no immediate danger.

Three youths were rescued from the Gulf of Mexico near Clearwater, Fla., after they had clung to their overturned sailboat for four hours.

50,000 Tackle Snow in N. Y. City

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Fifty thousand workmen toiled today to dig metropolitan New York out of the eight inches of snow and sleet that fell during the week-end in the season's worst blizzard.

A dozen deaths were attributed directly or indirectly to the weather, most of them to heart attacks brought on by unusual exertion.

There were few traffic fatalities, due largely to the fact hazardous streets and highway reduced travel to a minimum.

Santitation department officials assembled 1,500 snow plows and other mechanical equipment to help the manual labor remove the accumulated snow, and by working through the night helped maintain transportation schedules at near normal levels.

Speaking of ODD JOBS-

Old-Clothes Maker.

Fred Waring's task in the Hollywood movie studios is to make new clothes old, and old clothes older. To give the movie clothes their threadbare appearance he dumps the garments into washing machines and washes them for days at a time. He roughens shoes with files and sandpaper. Hats are held against a buffer to create worn spots. When wrinkles are ordered, the clothes are rolled into bundles and put into such as pirates and miners wear—a press overnight. Dirty clothes—are in reality clean clothes spotted with paint, sprinkled with fuller's earth and rubbed with lamp black. Tomorrow—She sells Sea Dispatches.

Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK
if it isn't the finest cigarette you ever smoked

LAST OCTOBER we issued a daring challenge to the smokers of the nation. We said, in effect, if the new Double-Mellow Old Golds don't give you a thrill, we'll pay the bill and pay it double.

Never before had such an offer been made on a cigarette. But we made it with our eyes open. The prize crop tobaccos in Double-Mellow Old Golds fully justified this 2 to 1 wager.

For the benefit of those smokers who overlooked this offer, we repeat it again today. Smoke half a pack of Double-Mellow Old Golds. If it isn't the finest smoke you ever tasted . . . just mail us the remaining cigarettes and the wrapper, at any time before May 1st, 1936, and we'll send you double the price you paid for the full package . . . plus postage.
